TEDDY WILLIAMS,

Plaintiff,

ANTHONY ANNUCCI, Commissioner, NYS
DOCCS; JOSEPH SERGEANT; JOHN DOE,
Officer in Charge; JOHN DOE, Escorting
Officer,

Defendants.

23-CV-6904 (LTS)

ORDER TO AMEND

LAURA TAYLOR SWAIN, Chief United States District Judge:

Plaintiff Teddy Williams, who is currently incarcerated at Sing Sing Correctional Facility, brings this pro se action under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, alleging that Defendants denied him the right to attend a Jumah prayer service during Ramadan, in violation of the First and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution and the Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act (“RLUIPA”), 42 U.S.C. § 2000cc, et seq. By order dated September 11, 2023, the Court granted Plaintiff’s request to proceed in forma pauperis (“IFP”), that is, without prepayment of fees.¹ For the reasons set forth below, the Court grants Plaintiff leave to file an amended complaint within 60 days of the date of this order.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

The Prison Litigation Reform Act requires that federal courts screen complaints brought by prisoners who seek relief against a governmental entity or an officer or employee of a governmental entity. See 28 U.S.C. § 1915A(a). The Court must dismiss a prisoner’s IFP complaint, or any portion of the complaint, that is frivolous or malicious, fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted, or seeks monetary relief from a defendant who is immune from such relief. 28 U.S.C. §§ 1915(e)(2)(B), 1915A(b); see Abbas v. Dixon, 480 F.3d 636, 639 (2d Cir. 2007). The Court must also dismiss a complaint if the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(h)(3).

While the law mandates dismissal on any of these grounds, the Court is obliged to construe pro se pleadings liberally, Harris v. Mills, 572 F.3d 66, 72 (2d Cir. 2009), and interpret them to raise the “strongest [claims] that they suggest,” Triestman v. Fed. Bureau of Prisons, 470 F.3d 471, 474 (2d Cir. 2006) (internal quotation marks and citations omitted) (emphasis in original). But the “special solicitude” in pro se cases, id. at 475 (citation omitted), has its limits – to state a claim, pro se pleadings still must comply with Rule 8 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, which requires a complaint to make a short and plain statement showing that the pleader is entitled to relief.

The Supreme Court has held that, under Rule 8, a complaint must include enough facts to state a claim for relief “that is plausible on its face.” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007). A claim is facially plausible if the plaintiff pleads enough factual detail to allow the Court to draw the inference that the defendant is liable for the alleged misconduct. In reviewing the complaint, the Court must accept all well-pleaded factual allegations as true. Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678-79 (2009). But it does not have to accept as true “[t]hreadbare recitals of the elements of a cause of action,” which are essentially just legal conclusions. Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555. After separating legal conclusions from well-pleaded factual allegations, the Court must determine whether those facts make it plausible – not merely possible – that the pleader is entitled to relief. Id.

BACKGROUND

This complaint was originally filed by thirty individuals incarcerated in Sing Sing Correctional Facility, who asked to proceed as a class and applied for pro bono counsel. See Brown v. Annucci, No. 7:23-CV-06056, 1 (CS) (“Brown”).² By order dated August 7, 2023, the Court severed each plaintiff’s claims, opening each as a new case, noting that:

each Plaintiff will ultimately need to allege his own set of facts detailing when the denial occurred, how he was affected, and what steps, if any, he took to challenge the denial.

(ECF No. 1 at 3.)

The following facts are drawn from the complaint, which is written from the perspective of Byron K. Brown, the lead plaintiff. On April 14, 2023, during Ramadan, Brown and other individuals in Housing Block A were not allowed to attend the 1:00 p.m. Jumah prayer service, because Sing Sing was operating on a “holiday schedule” to accommodate a former staff member’s memorial service. (Id. at 7.) According to the complaint, Sergeant Joseph and the two John Doe officers failed to follow New York State Department of Corrections and Community Supervision (“DOCCS”) protocol; and Acting Commissioner Annucci failed to take action to curb known patterns of officers denying prisoners the right to exercise their religion. (Id. at 4.)

Brown alleges that he: (1) “registered” as a Muslim with DOCCS in 1995 and 1997, during prior periods of incarceration; (2) requested to attend the Jumah service on April 14, 2023; (3) filed a grievance when he was not allowed to attend that service;³ (4) “actively ² Judge Cathy Seibel of this court issued an order of service in Brown on August 18, 2023. ECF 7:23-CV-6056, 11.

³ According to Brown: (1) he filed a grievance asserting that he “and other prisoners” had been denied the right to attend the Jumah service; (2) his “complaint was consolidated along with other plaintiffs’ grievances”; (3) he appealed to the superintendent of the facility and to the Central Office Review Committee (“CORC”); and (4) he “exhausted his administrative remedies.” (Id. at ¶¶ 16, 23, IV(F)(2).)

participated in every religious fast during the ‘Holy Month of Ramadan’; and (5) has attended Jumah services weekly, and Islamic classes regularly, during his incarceration. (Id. at ¶¶ 11, 16, 17.) Brown brings this action seeking monetary damages and declaratory relief.

The complaint does not contain facts specific to the other prisoners who signed it, including Plaintiff Williams.

DISCUSSION

A. Religious freedom claim

The First Amendment’s Free Exercise Clause protects individuals from “indirect coercion or penalties on the free exercise of religion [by government officials], not just outright prohibitions.” Lyng v. N.W. Indian Cemetery Protective Ass’n, 485 U.S. 439, 450 (1988). For a Free Exercise claim, the question at the pleading stage is whether the plaintiff has alleged facts showing that the “defendant[] significantly interfered with [the plaintiff’s] religious beliefs.” McEachin v. McGuinnis, 357 F.3d 197, 203 (2d Cir. 2004); Jones v. Goord, 435 F. Supp. 2d 221, 256 (S.D.N.Y. 2006) (noting that, in this Circuit, “a claim of ‘significant[] interfere[nce] with . . . religious beliefs’ is sufficient to state a constitutional claim.” (quoting McEachin, 357 F.3d at 203) (alterations in original)). There may, however, “be inconveniences so trivial that they are most properly ignored.” McEachin, 357 F.3d at 203 n.6.

Under RLUIPA, the government may not “substantial[ly] burden” an institutionalized person’s religious exercise unless the burden furthers a compelling governmental interest by the least restrictive means.⁴ Jova v. Smith, 582 F.3d 410, 415 (2d Cir. 2009). A “substantial burden” is one that places “substantial pressure on an adherent to modify his behavior and to violate his beliefs.” Singh v. Goord, 520 F. Supp. 2d 487, 498 (S.D.N.Y. 2007) (citing, inter alia, Jolly v. Coughlin, 76 F.3d 468, 477 (2d Cir.1996)).

B. Plaintiff’s claims

Because the operative pleading in this case is written from the perspective of Brown, the lead plaintiff, it does not contain any facts specific to Plaintiff Williams. In other words, the complaint does not provide factual allegations regarding the experience of Plaintiff Williams, and how his federally protected rights were violated.

Accordingly, as set forth in the Brown severance order, Plaintiff must allege his own set of facts detailing when the alleged denial of his right to attend a Jumah service occurred, how he was affected, and what steps, if any, he took to challenge the denial. The Court grants Plaintiff leave to file an amended complaint to provide information regarding whether Plaintiff:

(1) registered as a Muslim with DOCCS; (2) asked to attend the Jumah service on April 14, 2023; (3) was denied the right to attend the service; (4) filed a grievance about the incident; and (5) previously participated in religious services, holidays, and other events associated with being a practicing Muslim.

C. Motion for counsel

The factors to be considered in ruling on an indigent litigant’s request for counsel include the merits of the case, Plaintiff’s efforts to obtain a lawyer, and Plaintiff’s ability to gather the facts and present the case if unassisted by counsel. See Cooper v. A. Sargenti Co., 877 F.2d 170, 172 (2d Cir. 1989); Hodge v. Police Officers, 802 F.2d 58, 60-62 (2d Cir. 1986). Of these, the merits are “[t]he factor which command[s] the most attention.” Cooper, 877 F.2d at 172. Because it is too early in the proceedings for the Court to assess the merits of the action, Plaintiff’s motion for counsel is denied without prejudice to renewal at a later date.

D. State law claims

A district court may decline to exercise supplemental jurisdiction of state law claims when it “has dismissed all claims over which it has original jurisdiction.” 28 U.S.C. § 1367(c)(3). Generally, “when the federal-law claims have dropped out of the lawsuit in its early stages and only state-law claims remain, the federal court should decline the exercise of jurisdiction.” Carnegie-Mellon Univ. v. Cohill, 484 U.S. 343, 350 n.7 (1988).

Because Plaintiff has been granted leave to file an amended complaint, the Court will determine at a later stage whether to exercise its supplemental jurisdiction of any state law claims he may be asserting. See Kolari v. New York-Presbyterian Hosp., 455 F.3d 118, 122 (2d Cir. 2006) (“Subsection (c) of § 1367 ‘confirms the discretionary nature of supplemental jurisdiction by enumerating the circumstances in which district courts can refuse its exercise.’” (quoting City of Chicago v. Int’l Coll. of Surgeons, 522 U.S. 156, 173 (1997))).

LEAVE TO AMEND

Plaintiff proceeds in this matter without the benefit of an attorney. District courts generally should grant a self-represented plaintiff an opportunity to amend a complaint to cure its defects unless amendment would be futile. See Hill v. Curcione, 657 F.3d 116, 123-24 (2d Cir. 2011); Salahuddin v. Cuomo, 861 F.2d 40, 42 (2d Cir. 1988). Indeed, the Second Circuit has cautioned that district courts “should not dismiss [a pro se complaint] without granting leave to amend at least once when a liberal reading of the complaint gives any indication that a valid claim might be stated.” Cuoco v. Moritsugu, 222 F.3d 99, 112 (2d Cir. 2000) (quoting Gomez v. USAA Fed. Sav. Bank, 171 F.3d 794, 795 (2d Cir. 1999)). Because Plaintiff may be able to allege additional facts to state a valid claim, the Court grants Plaintiff 60 days’ leave to amend his complaint to detail his claims.

Plaintiff is granted leave to amend his complaint to provide more facts about his claims. In the “Statement of Claim” section of the amended complaint form, Plaintiff must provide a short and plain statement of the relevant facts supporting each claim against each defendant. If Plaintiff has an address for any named defendant, Plaintiff must provide it. Plaintiff should include all of the information in the amended complaint that Plaintiff wants the Court to consider in deciding whether the amended complaint states a claim for relief. That information should include:

- a) the names and titles of all relevant people;
- b) a description of all relevant events, including what each defendant did or failed to do, the approximate date and time of each event, and the general location where each event occurred;
- c) a description of the injuries Plaintiff suffered; and
- d) the relief Plaintiff seeks, such as money damages, injunctive relief, or declaratory relief.

Essentially, Plaintiff’s amended complaint should tell the Court: who violated his federally protected rights and how; when and where such violations occurred; and why Plaintiff is entitled to relief.

Because Plaintiff’s amended complaint will completely replace, not supplement, the original complaint, any facts or claims that Plaintiff wants to include from the original complaint must be repeated in the amended complaint.

E. Referral to NYLAG

Plaintiff may consult the legal clinic in this District that assists people who are parties in civil cases and do not have lawyers. The Clinic is run by a private organization called the New York Legal Assistance Group (“NYLAG”); it is not part of, or run by, the court (and, among other things, therefore cannot accept filings on behalf of the court, which must still be made by any pro se party through the Pro Se Intake Unit).

To receive limited-scope assistance from the Clinic, Plaintiff may mail a signed retainer and intake form to the NYLAG Pro Se Clinic at 40 Foley Square, LL22, NY, NY 10007. Once the paperwork is received, the Clinic will coordinate contact with the litigant. Once the paperwork is received, it may take up to two weeks for the Clinic to contact the litigant. Copies of the Clinic's flyer, retainer, and intake form are attached to this order.

CONCLUSION

Plaintiff is granted leave to file an amended complaint that complies with the standards set forth above. Plaintiff must submit the amended complaint to this Court's Pro Se Intake Unit within sixty days of the date of this order, caption the document as an "Amended Complaint," and label the document with docket number 23-CV-6904 (LTS). An Amended Civil Rights Complaint form is attached to this order. No summons will issue at this time. If Plaintiff fails to comply within the time allowed, and he cannot show good cause to excuse such failure, the complaint will be dismissed for failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted.

The Court certifies under 28 U.S.C. § 1915(a)(3) that any appeal from this order would not be taken in good faith, and therefore IFP status is denied for the purpose of an appeal. Cf. Coppedge v. United States, 369 U.S. 438, 444-45 (1962) (holding that an appellant demonstrates good faith when he seeks review of a nonfrivolous issue).

SO ORDERED.
